CAUGHT AT LAST IN FAR WYOMING

Junius Williamson, Wanted for Murder, Forgery and Bigamy Is Arrested.

BROKE PETERSBURG JAIL

Held for Chief Ragland Who Leaves at Once—Other Petersburg News.

[Times-Dispatch Bureau, 109 North Sycamore Street, Petersburg, Va., October 19.]
Junius A. Williamson, alleged murderer, forger and bigamy, who made his escape from the temporary jail used by the city on July 2, has been arrested and is locked up at Fort Russell, Wyo.

For several weeks Chief of Police Ragland has been quietly and diligently at work upon Williamson's case, and his efforts have at last been crowned with success. He will leave at once for Wyoming, armed with requisition papers.

The History of the Case.
Williamson's capture was the talk of the town for months. On the evening of June 9, Parnella Williamson, wife of Junius A. Williamson, was taken suddenly ill. Just before her death she told her friends and neighbors, who were at her bedside, that she had been poisoned. At first her statement was not believed, but evidence was discovered pointing to arsenical poisoning, and a thorough investigation was made. In the meantime Williamson had left the State, but a warrant was issued, and he was arrested at Tarboro, N. C., by Chief Ragland, on June 22, and brought back to Petersburg.

While investigating the death of Mrs. Williamson, Chief Ragland made the discovery that Williamson had been married before and that his first wife was alive in Texas, and these facts becoming public, the belief became general that Williamson had murdered his wife. Money was raised by the parents of Mrs. Williamson, and the body of Mrs. Williamson was exhumed by Coroner Leigh, the entire stomach cut out and sent to Dr. W. H. Taylor, of Richmond, for analysis. Before the coroner's jury received the report of Dr. Taylor, Williamson made his escape.

The jury later on brought in a verdict that Parnella Williamson's death was caused by arsenical poison, administered by a person or persons unknown to the jury. Rewards were offered by Sheriff Evans and Governor Swanson for the arrest of Williamson, and every clue was followed without success.

Chief Ragland heard nothing further regarding Williamson until he heard that Williamson had enlisted in the United States Army, under the name of Frank J. Shaw, and had been sent to Fort Russell, Wyo. Governor Swanson, at the request of Chief Ragland, appointed him as Adjutant-General of the United States Army and obtained information which established the identity of Williamson.

Pickpockets Make Rich Haul.
The light-fingered men following Barnum & Bailey's circus, which showed in the city today, worked successfully during the morning parade. In one instance a wife stood quietly by and saw the pickpocket rob her husband of $30 in gold, and was too much astonished at the working of the thief to give an alarm.

Late this evening Lieutenant Donahue, Detective Heelan and Officer Brister arrested Fred Jackson and John Johnson, two negro pickpockets, following the circus. The arrests were made on the circus grounds. Jackson attempted to resist, and was knocked down.

They were taken to the station house, and when searched, gold watches and other articles, including purses, were found on them. They also carried concealed weapons. They are held for the Dinwiddie authorities.

AGRICULTURE IN THE STATE

Governor Kitchin in Opening Address Calls Attention to Its Achievements.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
RALEIGH, N. C., October 19.—An especially fine parade characterized the opening of the forty-ninth annual State Fair here today. Headed by the Third Regiment Band, and followed by more than twice the number of mounted marshals as usually report for the first day, the parade had many official carriages, and was followed by unique vehicles and mounted men from the Wild West shows, and other features of the midway.

Exceptionally Large Crowd.
In his opening address at noon, Governor Kitchin spoke forcibly of North Carolina's agricultural achievements. He was heard by an exceptionally large crowd.

Signs found the agricultural and industrial exhibits much more complete and the agricultural features probably twice as numerous as on other opening days in the past. Still, the exhibits are far ahead of any previous year. Fruits and grains show a decided advance, and many manufacturing plants in various parts of the State have exhibits. The midway is nearly twice as extensive as in the past, with more real big features.

GROWERS URGED TO FIX PRICES

Interstate Meeting of Farmers at Danville for Purpose of Organization.
DANVILLE, VA., October 19.—An interstate meeting of the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, known as the Farmers' Union in Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee, convened here today. The meeting was called to order by B. F. Earles, Lynchburg, the organizer for Virginia. Later, Dr. H. O. Alexander, president of the North Carolina Union, spoke. A committee on executive addresses were made this morning, when the speakers urged upon the tobacco-growers to organize and fix a price for their product. Instead of letting the "trust" name its own price. The prime object of the gathering here is to formulate some plan whereby the tobacco-grower can be put on a more independent basis and secure higher prices for his labor.

After a few speeches, a committee on ways and means was appointed to submit a report, recommending the plan of procedure. The meeting is composed of representatives from each of the States. After their appointment, the meeting adjourned for a session. The meeting is expected to continue for two days.

EIGHTEEN HOURS IN CAPSIZED BOAT

The Remarkable Experience of the Sixth Member of a Wrecked Vessel.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]
TANGIER, VA., October 19.—After living in the forepeak of a capsized vessel in Tangier Sound for eighteen hours, James O'Donnell, one of a crew of six, thought to have been drowned after the rescue of the other five members of the crew, was rescued yesterday when the boat was turned over.

O'Donnell had a remarkable experience, and he owes his life to the fact that when the vessel turned over in the gale considerable air was compressed into the hull, and this enabled him to breathe and remain alive, although trapped like a rat.

How It All Happened.
The accident occurred just off Delias Island. One of the heavy rollers struck the little vessel, and in a few moments it was capsized. O'Donnell, who was in the forepeak, was able to jump off before the boat overturned. O'Donnell was in the forepeak, and when the vessel capsized found himself in prison.

All of the other members of the crew clung to the sides of the overturned boat until they were rescued by Captain Edward Johnson, of the steamer Virginia. The Virginia was on her way to Baltimore when those aboard heard cries coming from the water. The searchlight was put in use, and Captain Johnson directed the five men clinging to her.

Yesterday morning Captain Webster and some of his crew went out to the vessel to turn her over. After hard work they finally succeeded, and to their astonishment they found O'Donnell in the forepeak of the boat.

He was in a very weak condition when rescued, and could have held out very little longer.

Painful Dyspepsia

A Form of Indigestion Caused by Gastric Irritation From Undigested Food in the Stomach.

No kind of dyspepsia is better marked than that known as "painful indigestion." Pain, generally of a dull character, is felt after meals, and along with the pain, sickness and nausea are some cases the soreness is permanent. The tenderness is commonly restricted to a spot in the middle of the body, immediately below the breastbone.

It often extends upward under the breast, which consequently feels sore on pressure, or the tenderness is felt toward either side. This tenderness is commonly associated with an unpleasant feeling of heat, a burning or smarting sensation, and a feeling of fullness or "lumpiness" in the stomach. It is termed by some persons, "stomach ache," and is a very common complaint. There is also a "gnawing" and "dragging" sensation, and sometimes a "burning" or "stinging" sensation, and sometimes a "lumpiness" in the stomach. The tongue is usually coated and from a mere indigestion, the condition of the stomach can often be correctly told.

It is a common error with persons who suffer from stomach pain caused by indigestion and gastric irritation to use such drugs as chlorodyne, Hoffman's Anodyne and other "pain killers" for their relief. Such treatment is a great mistake. While these drugs afford temporary relief to the dyspeptic, they do not cure the cause of the trouble. They generally cause much annoyance, heartburn, water-brash, acidity, nausea and headache are not infrequent attendants. The tongue is usually coated and from a mere indigestion, the condition of the stomach can often be correctly told.

But not only is the form of dyspepsia which is accompanied by pain cured through the use of these digestive tablets, but also every other form of indigestion, as there are many kinds in which stomach pain does not occur, but where there are many symptoms equally disagreeable, discomforting, disconcerting and discouraging. Sturtead's Dyspepsia Tablets contain, in a highly concentrated form, powerful anti-dyspeptic ingredients, which digest rapidly and thoroughly food of every kind, including proteins, all the acids and enzymes of the stomach, and will disintegrate and digest 3,000 grains of food. Purchase a box from your druggist at once (price 50 cents) and get rid of the pain, discomfort and other disagreeable symptoms of dyspepsia.
